Xactimate^{tm} I - Class Description & Information

Course Requirements

■ Student is knowledgeable in basic construction practices and terminology.

■ Each student should have basic computer skills and understand programs such as Microsoft^{tm} Word, Excel & Project or the like. It is not essential but highly recommended.

———◆———

Course Outline

■ Developing an ESTIMATE on Xactimate^{tm}

- Basic Estimate Framework
- Entering Data into each room
    - i. Macros
    - ii. Special Conditions
    - iii. General Conditions
- Items not included in Xactimate^{tm} price list
    - i. Equipment, Labor, Material
    - ii. General Conditions
    - iii. Creating New Price List Info
- Modifying prices in relation to Equipment and Material availability

Xactimate^{tm} by far is one of the most useful tools available to the contractor or estimator. If you have already started using the program you are aware of all the important tools it has to offer. By utilizing the MACRO functions and other time saving tools on Xactimate^{tm} estimating is easier and faster than traditional methods. We assume you are well versed in the Xactimate^{tm} environment and we will not be going over what you have already learned about using the program. However, there are a few items to consider regarding the use of Xactimate^{tm} and how it may be used even better. We will train you how to use the Xactimate^{tm} estimating program and how to modify some of its functions to create a more thorough estimate.

Xactimate^{tm} II - Class Description & Information

Course Requirements

- Student is knowledgeable in basic construction practices and terminology.
- Each student should have basic computer skills and understand programs such as Microsoft^{tm} Word, Excel & Project or the like. It is not essential but highly recommended.
- Students should have a working knowledge of Xactimate^{tm}

Course Outline

■ Understanding The Policy - Practical Applications

■ Typical insurance claim terms will be addressed:

- ACV - Actual Cash Value
- RCV - Replacement Cost Value
- Depreciation
- ALE - Additional Living Expense
- Coverage,s A, B, and C - Personal Property
- Line of Sight
- Like Kind & Quality
- Bringing the loss back to the condition prior to the claim.
- Fair Rental Value
- SDI- Laws and practical notes
- R&R, D&R, etc.

An experienced estimator and/or Scoper may or may not find it necessary to understand insurance policies and the many terms found in them. However to be an effective claims negotiator one must comprehend the basics of a typical policy and its terms. The objective here is to understand what the policy will cover in a loss and the amount of coverage allowed. It will make a big difference in settling the claim and development of your estimate.

---◆---

■ Scope of Loss / Estimate Preparation Skills

■ What is a Scope of Loss......

- Measuring techniques
- Inspection techniques
- Photographing
- Entering data on SCOPE sheet.
- How to take proper notes while you scope
- How to make your sketches and drawings clear for all to see
- Acknowledging site conditions
- How to begin a scope of loss inspection
- Tools you will need when you do your SCOPE
- And much, much more...

The keys to proper scope procedures will be thoroughly addressed in our classes. We are training our students now so they are prepared to conduct a proper scope in the future. Some of the following issues will be detailed:

---◆---

■ What is an ESTIMATE from a Scope of Loss.....

- Consider site conditions
- Weather
- Materials
- Special labor, equipment or construction techniques.

An ESTIMATE is a cost of repairs of the SCOPE of loss. The estimate is different from the scope because it has the cost attached to the repair procedure. For example, if a wall has a crack the estimate for the repair is not only to fix the crack but to apply the wall covering over it. In other words you may have scoped the damage (crack in the wall) but the estimate is to fix the crack and apply the wallcovering to properly repair it.

■ Repair Procedures - Practical Applications & Procedures

- The proper repair may not be the most economical repair.
- Demolition-Rebuild v. Repair
- Understanding policy limits and how it can effect your claim
- Interpreting Structural / Soils Engineering reports

Examples and Miscellaneous Information

Items Xactimate^{tm} May Not Include:

We will teach you how you can create your own price list item and use it in the estimate. Be sure when you scope you make note of all items even though you are certain they are not in the Xactimate^{tm} program. Actually, Xactimate^{tm} encourages their users to create prices and occasionally will update there own price lists with some of the data they receive from users. This is beneficial to all concerned and eventually some insurance companies will begin to use these prices in their own estimating thereby making negotiations more amicable.

———◆———

■ Other Insights And Lectures

■ Estimate Preparation

- Presentation Package
- Negotiation Skills
- Going to Appraisal
- Writing letters and keeping records
- Hiring an Appraiser, Umpire etc.

■ USING Xactimate^{tm} Format In Other Applications

- Creating Excel Spreadsheet
- Creating Microsoft Project Worksheet
- Utilizing the Time and Materials reports
- Creating useful charts and spreadsheets from Xactimate^{tm} data

The above are just a sampling of the techniques and topics we cover in our classes. If you feel you or your company will benifit from this educational experience please follow the links to
